AUGUST ELECTION.

FOR STATE TREASURER.

JAMES H. GARRARD,

OF CLAY COUNTY.

CONSERVATIVE UNION CONVENTION.

We are requested to call a convention of the voters of Jefferson county, who are opposed to the Constitutional amendment, and to unconstitutional and extra constitutional measures generally—who prefer the Constitution as it is and the Union as it was—to meet at Jeffersontown on Saturday, the 17th inst. It is desirable that there should be as full a meeting as possible from every precinct. The object is to nominate a candidate to represent Jefferson county in the next Legislature.

We are told by a special dispatch to the Journal that General Palmer and a number of colored men were in Cincinnati. They complain of the condition of things in this State. The people wish to drive away, will not employ them to work, etc. They want help, and it is promised them. They must have funds, etc.

Now, the state of things in this State is easily explained. The negroes that have gone into the army are, of course, provided for. They have masters who compel their services and provide for them; but here is a law of Congress setting free their wives and children. Some of these conclude that if they are free, they will have a nice time. Why should they stay at home and work? So they put off. They then come to the conclusion that they will show that they are free to put on airs, give some insolence to their mistresses generally. To have peace at home, the master sends them off. They live to some military camp, with a tale of woe, and some insolence to the Abolition press; but then they are too free to work, or no work is to be had if they would do it. Another expedient is adopted, with the Federal law to sanction it, and in defiance of the laws of this State. Any negro goes to go to work where he pleases. It is his right to do without work. There are some white people who would like, perhaps, to get passes, if they could, thereby, get meat and bread generally; these are a worthless, good-for-nothing class, who will not work at all, if they can help it. The negroes are getting into a bad fix by their disorderly and lawless doings, and the military, finding they have got a large sized elephant on hands, now want something done about it.

Now, the free negro being no nuisance anywhere, and, in fact, doing a "brave line of business," and of course, of course, of course, and as they need labor as well as we do, and, moreover, as they are greatly in favor of freedom, and feel a deep interest in them, how can these freedmen be in want? They get passes now to go where they please; harvest is coming in the free States, and there is a demand for hands. We don't comprehend, on the theory supported by the "sublime logic of events," there can be any difficulty.

The millennium has come to the negro; the wonderful loss of freedom is come; but somehow the inalienable right to bread and meat comes in first as a necessity.

This is only the beginning of troubles. They will be no fewer or better hereafter than they are now. Some people are crazy with moonshine, listen to the "sublime logic of events," and of course, of course, of course, by seeing visions of the future, all based on falsehood, which will make the mist of the morning be the "sublime logic of events" that will knock some sense into the added brains of fanatical persons. Such the negro live by the sweat of the white man's face. These people to the practical result of the "sublime logic of events." He always asks alms, and a little will be dolled out; but that little, not long.

We are getting into the "sublime logic of events" now, for the major premise is a call for charity. The major premise is the "sublime logic of events," and add millions more to support freedom, to make experiments in accordance with the "sublime logic of events," and be consoled with perdition fustian about the march of events.

The war was not to free negroes; oh, no; that was a slander. It was to put down the rebellion; but the rebellion is down; what's the matter now? What do we want with armies, and the vast expenditures that attend them? For no reason in the world but to carry out the party doctrine of free negroes. The country would be as quiet to-day as it has been in three past but for this effort. There is no use of armies now to restore the Union; but there is something else to do. We must now rob States of the rights they have won, and confer power on the Federal Government that it never had and never ought to have, or we can't dispense with armies.

The following resolutions were adopted at a mass meeting of German citizens last Thursday, and presented to Maj. General Palmer:

WHEREAS, the rebellion has been suppressed by the energy of the Government; and whereas, it is now the duty of patriots to use their utmost exertions to irreversibly establish the great principles vindicated by our victory; and whereas, the important election of State officers, and the representation of the people, is approaching; therefore,

Resolved, That we cordially endorse the recommendations, and gratefully hail the assurances, made by Gen. Palmer in his Frankfurt speech.

Resolved, That we will support no candidate but those who are known as tried patriots, and who are in favor of the Constitutional amendment.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed in each ward to use their utmost endeavors in preventing the circulation of disloyal papers in their respective wards.

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed in each ward to organize free-union clubs, and to give the purpose of discussing the important issues before us, and to rally the loyal voters, so as to smother the last annihilating blow to Southern Treason.

(Louisville Journal.)

Where was this mass meeting held, and who held it? We can't find any one who saw the mass. It was, probably, a secret meeting, and we are not to know. Nothing doing. We judge that from the fact that they don't want people to read disloyal papers. They have appointed a committee of five to supervise people's reading, to judge what is loyal for other people, and keep edged tools out of their hands.

Mass meetings held in day light are not generally afraid of people's reading. They are going to give the last blow to the rebellion. That's clear. Where were the mass when blows were needed? We admire the courage that keeps safe in a corner when blows are dangerous, and then comes forward with valor to do exploits when no blood is to be shed; but all that is wanted is to sound and see what papers people read, and give security on the danger of reading them. Illustrious mass meeting; where did you learn the lesson that it was your duty to busy yourselves about what people read? What is it your business what your neighbor reads?

"A mass meeting of Germans!" Indeed, the Germans in this city generally better what free institutions mean than to appoint a committee of five to supervise people's reading, to judge what is loyal for other people, and keep edged tools out of their hands.

The press they must have learned that they are in some other latitude. The press they would now proscrib, this mass meeting would not by this time have a right to vote or to meddle with politics at all!

New Orleans papers of the 1st ult., announced the arrival in that city of the Commissioners for paroling the rebel General Kirby Smith's army, and a commission from General Magruder, consisting of Colonel Ashbel Smith and W. P. Ballinger, arrived in New Orleans with full power from the military and civil authorities to surrender the civil and military Government of the State of Texas.

These gentlemen state that prior to their leaving Texas the military forces had disbanded, refusing to obey orders, and the forces stationed in and around Houston were converted into a mob, and literally gutted the Quartermaster's, Commissary and Ordnance store houses. They then rushed to the magazine, bursting open the kegs of powder, and were standing ankle-deep filling their canteens with powder, when there was a loud cry on the part of citizens for fire-engines, which were immediately sent, and extinguished the place with water. The soldiers fled, carrying off all the Government property, and were soon with Magruder's retreating army, with some baggage making their way home.

THE GEORGIA PRESS.

The Negro Question—The Condition of the Freedmen, and the Feelings of the Late Slave in the Case—What Georgians Have to Say.

We find in the Cincinnati Commercial, of the 7th, lengthy extracts from the Georgia Press, which we make the following selections. They are important, as showing the state of public sentiment in Georgia, on the negro question, and will be read with interest. (Eves. Democrat.)

(From the Macon Telegraph, May 12.)

A series of outrages were committed in Talbot county, a few days since, which have seldom been equalled for atrocity. We find the particulars in the Sumter Republican, of Saturday last.

On the night of the 28th ult., William Aldridge, formerly of Atlanta, who belonged to the 6th Georgia regiment, and a company of negroes, consisting of forty-seven, went to the residence of a number of citizens in the county and murdered their gold and silver. They burned the gin-house and twenty-eight bales of cotton, the property of Mrs. Gorman, a widow lady; the gin-house and twenty-five bales of cotton of Major Samuel Baldwin; and also destroyed the bales of cotton of Hiram Knowlton, together with a large quantity of wheat.

Beside this plundering and burning, several of the negroes committed the most atrocious outrages upon the persons of a number of the white population. They returned the next night and destroyed everything they could lay their hands upon. They killed a white man, and a white woman, and a white child, and a white dog, and a white cat, and a white pig, and a white chicken, and a white rabbit, and a white mouse, and a white rat, and a white snake, and a white spider, and a white fly, and a white bee, and a white ant, and a white worm, and a white grub, and a white caterpillar, and a white larva, and a white pupa, and a white adult, WOODLAWN RACES! Fifth Day.

The attendance at the Woodlawn yesterday was as large as on either of the previous days, and this is the first time that the "knowing ones" have been heard, the favorite having won during the previous three days. The track was in excellent condition, and the horses were all in good trim. The attendance of ladies, though not large, was good, and we expect to see on the course to-day a large number of the fair sex.

The race for the Woodlawn stake, for which there were nine entries, four of whom started, viz: Alexander's, Jr., by Lexington, dam by Brown Dick; Clay's, b. c., by Star David, dam by Trustee; and Buford's, b. c., by Ringgold. Before the commencement Alexander was the favorite, at odds, against the field; Clay being the second choice, and Buford last. As the commencement of the pool selling started was expected to start, but it was afterwards announced that he would not start, but this had no effect as to the betting on the other horses. As will be seen by the result, published below, the favorite was badly beaten.

When the "go" for the first heat was given the horses were well together, Clay being in the lead. Buford second, and Alexander third. On reaching the quarter pole Buford showed in the advance, Alexander having gained the second position, and in this way they ran the first mile of the heat; and, in fact, the entire heat was run in this manner, Buford coming in winner of the heat in 3:42; the last mile being run in 1:47.

The second heat was but a repetition of the first, Buford winning, contrary to the expectations of all, with comparative ease, in 3:40. We annex the

LETTER FROM COLUMBIA, TENN.

COLUMBIA, TENN., June 7th, 1865.

Editors—After a pleasant journey through one of the most beautiful sections of country I ever beheld, I find myself in the quiet but beautiful little town of Columbia, 45 miles from Nashville, on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad.

The Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad, have the thanks of "our party" for their courtesies extended us. The railroad is now working in fine order and trains are running regular as clockwork. All the track and bridges which were destroyed by rebels have been rebuilt, and the condition of the road is as good as new.

I understand that all the Southern roads are to be given up by the military authorities. I hope this is so, for the roads are of very little use to the United States now, with the exception of hauling soldiers about. The mail facilities are poorly established on this road; in fact there seems to be none at all save what the Adams Express Company choose to carry, and that is only occasionally. The people in this section of country are waiting very patiently for the mails to be transported over the road regularly. The freight and passenger business over this road is on the increase, and as the times are quiet, it is not surprising that the business is increasing. The freight and passenger business over this road is on the increase, and as the times are quiet, it is not surprising that the business is increasing.

We stopped at Franklin, and found it quiet. The military authorities are there doing garrison duty. The citizens are preparing for business. Quite a number of returned rebels are at home, and are doing garrison duty. The citizens are preparing for business. Quite a number of returned rebels are at home, and are doing garrison duty.

This is a quiet, beautiful little place. Brig. Gen. L. M. McCoy commands the post. He is on duty portions of the One Hundred and Eighty-fifth Ohio and Indiana regiments. He is a brave and gallant officer, and his men are all new as well as soldiers. They want to go home, and are waiting for the mails to be transported over the road regularly. The freight and passenger business over this road is on the increase, and as the times are quiet, it is not surprising that the business is increasing.

There are three handsome female seniors here, all of which are closed. Business is beginning to look up, and a great many people are preparing to open their houses again and continue business as they did before the war.

The crops along the line were not a promising character. Cotton and corn were better than expected, but the wheat crop which is already planted, it will be, for seed is very scarce. Provisions are plentiful, and the price is low. There are a large number of persons in this section of country who think "Sherman is the greatest man living," and, in my opinion, they think about as near right as any of our individuals have ever met.

Coming along the road from Nashville, and but a few miles from the city, I noticed that the bloody footprints of war had been left stamped upon the beautiful hillsides, and in some places, I discovered a group of graves upon the slope of some elevated hill, with here and there the quiet repose of a single soldier, and in some places, I discovered a group of graves upon the slope of some elevated hill, with here and there the quiet repose of a single soldier.
